Why do we enjoy being afraid at times, yet find ourselves debilitated by fear at other times?

Discover how the burgeoning science of fear is leading to a newfound understanding of how the mind works, as well as potentially powerful new ways of treating and preventing fear-related disorders.

Join Dr. Kerry Ressler for insight into the study of this intense emotional response and, remarkably, how fear is expressed similarly in the brains of mice and men.

Presented in conjunction with the special exhibition Goose Bumps!: The Science of Fear, now on display.

This lecture is made possible by a generous gift from Marty and John Gillin in honor of Carter and Hampton Morris.
