

Additional winners in the 2019 Emory Quality Conference included the following:

- Nancye Feistritz, chief nursing officer at EUH, and colleagues won the Outstanding Use of Reliability Principles award for a poster titled "A Comprehensive Approach to Initiating STAT Head CTs within Two Hours"
- Viniya Patidar, hospitalist, and colleagues won the Outstanding Quality Improvement Intervention award for a poster titled "Evaluation of a Multifactorial Protocol in Decreasing Inappropriate Use of Telemetry Monitoring in Hospitalized Patients"
- Lisa Aiken, nurse educator at Emory Johns Creek Hospital, and colleagues won the Outstanding Quality Improvement Results for a poster titled "Improving Throughput Times for Low Acuity Patients in EJCH ER"
- Ceressa Ward, clinical pharmacist at EUHM, and colleagues won the Outstanding Safety Intervention award for a poster titled "Implementation of a Systematic Airway Management Process: a 4-Year Follow-Up"
- Cicily Vachaparambil, internal medicine resident at Grady Memorial Hospital, and colleagues at won the Outstanding Data Analysis and Display award for a poster titled "Get Up and Go: Improving Patient Outcomes through Inpatient Mobilization"
- Rebeca Heitkam, director of Emory Saint Joseph Hospital's congregational health ministries and faith community nursing program, and colleagues won the Outstanding Education Intervention award for a poster titled "Faith Community Nursing and Hospital Readmissions Reduction Program"
- Siyeh Gretzinger 20MPH, Inam Sakinah 20MPH, and colleagues won the Best Poster by a Student or Trainee for "Reducing Antibiotic Prescribing Rates for Acute Respiratory Infections in Three Primary Care Clinics."