As the only National Cancer Institute (NCI)–Designated Comprehensive Cancer Center for the state of Georgia and one of only 57 in the country, Winship Cancer Institute of Emory University discovers, develops, delivers and teaches novel and highly effective approaches to cancer prevention, detection, diagnosis, treatment and survivorship.

Winship has 645 faculty members conducting cancer research; they received $132 million in cancer research funding, with $50 million from the NCI, as reported in February 2025. Faculty include investigators from various units across Emory, Georgia Tech and regional partner institutions. Winship researchers are supported by numerous national team science grants that focus on high-priority cancers impacting Georgians, and they have the distinction of holding both an NCI Specialized Program of Research Excellence grant and an NCI P01 program project grant in lung cancer.

Winship physicians provide comprehensive, advanced cancer care at eight Emory Healthcare locations and three affiliated sites. Winship serves more than 19,000 new patients every year. In May 2023, Winship opened a 17-story, full-service inpatient and outpatient cancer care center – Winship at Emory Midtown – that delivers a unique model of personalized cancer care. Winship provides the only proton therapy in Georgia at the Emory Proton Therapy Center, and Winship is home to the state’s oldest and largest bone marrow and stem cell transplant center. In addition to transforming cancer care delivery, Winship works to better predict and prevent cancer as well as to provide survivorship support services such as integrative therapies. Winship offers the most cancer clinical trials in Georgia; more than 700 patients enrolled in 500 interventional clinical trials at Winship in 2024. Also, Winship has the state’s largest unit for phase I clinical trials—a critical first step for introducing new therapies against cancer. Winship is one of 30 inaugural U.S. cancer centers selected as a Lead Academic Participating Site for the NCI National Clinical Trials Network, NCI’s primary infrastructure for NCI-funded treatment and primary advanced imaging trials to improve the lives of people with cancer. Winship also serves patients through the Winship Cancer Network, a partnership with community hospitals enhancing access to research and treatment (see page 8).

Through its Community Outreach and Engagement program, Winship facilitates research and disseminates evidence-based interventions in Georgia with the goal of reducing health disparities and the cancer burden across the state. Winship also provides comprehensive, cancer-focused training and education opportunities across the continuum of learners, starting in middle school and spanning undergraduate, graduate, postdoctoral and career development programs.

- Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)
Emory and the CDC have a number of research contracts and consulting partnerships. Emory University Hospital's Serious Communicable Diseases Unit, where the first patients in the US with Ebola virus disease were treated, was built in collaboration with the CDC. Emory faculty serve as advisors on public health committees throughout the CDC, and CDC officers frequently serve as adjunct faculty in Emory's schools of public health and medicine.

WOODRUFF HEALTH SCIENCES CENTER (WHSC) HIGHLIGHTS AND IMPACT

- Clinical Trials: Emory had 2,554 active clinical trials with 66,893 actively enrolled participants in FY 2024.
- Advancing Stroke Research The Marcus Foundation awarded the Emory University School of Medicine and the Grady Health System’s Marcus Stroke and Neuroscience Center a $25.9 million grant to accelerate research aimed at revolutionizing hemorrhagic stroke treatment. The grant funds the Rapid Evacuation and Access of Cerebral Hemorrhage (REACH) trial and its companion REACH registry. The REACH trial explores treatment for intracerebral hemorrhage, a severe form of hemorrhagic stroke where bleeding from a ruptured vessel occurs directly within the brain tissue, causing severe damage to brain cells and disrupting vital brain functions. Affecting approximately 3.4 million people each year, these strokes are the deadliest and most debilitating, with significant health and economic impacts.

- Jobs: With over 37,000 employees, the WHSC helps make Emory one of the largest employers in metro Atlanta.
- Improving Care for People with Dementia The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) selected Emory Integrated Memory Care to participate in a new Medicare alternative payment model designed to support people living with dementia and their caregivers. A joint initiative between the Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing and Emory Healthcare, Emory Integrated Memory Care offers geriatric primary care and caregiver education and support. The nurse-managed practice is available as an outpatient clinic at the Emory Brain Health Center and at select Atlanta-area senior living communities. Under CMS's Guiding an Improved Dementia Experience Model, the Emory Integrated Memory Care practice will be one of almost 400 participants – and the only one in 2024 in Georgia – building dementia care programs across the country to increase care coordination and improve access to services and supports, including respite care, for people living with dementia and their caregivers.
- Improving Newborn Health Emory University School of Medicine's Medical Nutrition Therapy for Prevention program was awarded a $2 million cooperative agreement from the U.S. Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) to support the Southeast Integrative Newborn Screening – Long-Term Follow-Up Consortium. The Consortium includes Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, and Mississippi health departments and partners with other states in the Southeastern Regional Genetics Group (SERGG). The collaboration will strengthen the newborn screening system through SERGG's established framework and partnership. Newborn screening is designed to quickly identify infants with rare disorders such as phenylketonuria or cystic fibrosis, which could lead to significant morbidity, mortality, or intellectual disability if left untreated.
- Philanthropy: In FY2024, the WHSC was awarded $267.4 million in private support from individuals, foundations, and corporations.
- Physician Workforce: Emory's medical school provides more than half of the residency training positions in the state of Georgia with its 120 accredited residency training programs.
- Dollars: The WHSC received $1.042 billion in research funds in FY2024.
- Technology Transfer: Emory currently manages more than 1,800 technologies, which has led to the formation of 143 companies and more than 65 new products in the marketplace, some of which—like the discovery of several HIV drugs—have offered major health and societal benefit. Since FY 2000, the university has filed more than 3,700 patent applications and been issued more than 850 U.S. patents. In that time, Emory has executed more than 860 license agreements, resulting in more than $1.3 billion in licensing revenue, thereby creating additional funding for new and ongoing research.
